Many a good Razor has been caſt aſide as uſeleſs and good for nothing, till

PRO BONO PUBLICO,

A FACT; or, PROOF POSITIVE.

STEP'D FORWARD,

To give eaſe to the Cheek, comfort to the upper Lip, a pleaſant familiarity to the Chin and an uncommon agreeable

SURPRIZE

To the bearded Phyſiognomy which takes place by a RAZOR being ſtrop'd or ſharpen'd on

PACKWOOD's New Invented Razor Strop:

It acts with ſuch Power, as to take Notches out of a Razor, Penknife, or Surgeon's Inſtrument; and afterwards to leave ſo ſmooth an edge, as to Shave yourſelf with that comfort and eaſe before deſcrib'd—☞ The Strop acts by Virtue of a Paſte, and may be ſpread on one ſide of your old Razor Strap very thin with a knife, as you would a plaiſter, &c. Let it ſtay two days before you uſe it, and if your ſtrop is dry it will make it Supple, and the effect will you paſt belief—If any Emery or Dirt is on, be careful it is firſt ſcraped off.—The Paſte will hang to the back of the Razor at firſt uſing, but you muſt keep working it on the Strop and it will ſtick faſt enough afterwards.—It is neceſſary to renew the Strop with freſh Paſte when by uſe it will not give an edge.—☞ Be particular to read the red Directions on the Caſe of the Strop before you uſe it.—The Proprietor himſelf has ſtrop'd a Notch out of his own common Sixpenny Knife, and ſhav'd himſelf dry (though a hard Beard without a Lather.) much cleaner and ſmoother than he has done for many years back,

This is a material acquiſition for the uſe of Counting-Houſes, Infirmaries, and Barbers Shops, &c.—To paſs a proper Encomium on this ſtrop would ſwell this Advertiſment beyond a common hand-bill.—To give you a faint idea, permit the Proprieter to obſerve, that a diamond or flint will cut glaſs, and this ſtrap will have as powerful an effect on ſteel by way of poliſhing, and give a fine tho' not a wirey-edge to any ſmall Inſtrument not larger than a common caſe-knife, one particular remark is neceſſary, when you ſhave lay the razor flat on your Face, and bear very light for the compoſition has the power to make the edge of the Razor too ſharp, is a reaſon that the other ſide of the ſtrop is to counter-act and bring the Razor to ſuit your own Beard, whether hard or ſoft, the Strops are ſold for 3s. 6d. 5s. and 10s. 6d each.—The Compoſition that will keep the Strop in good order for Years, per box 2s. 6d. and G. Packwood will alſo engage to make an old Razor Strop as good as new with this Paſte for only 2s. & 6d.

The Proprietor wiſhes to diveſt Gentlemen of that Prejudice which generally takes place with advertiſements like this, as a proof G. Packwood offers to return the Money within one week after the purchaſe if not found to anſwer Agreeable to the Advertiſement.

☞ G. Packwood can anſwer for no Strop or box of Paſte except it is ſeal'd with the Impreſſion of a Bird and the word Fidelle.  Letters poſt paid duly attended to.

Sold by the Proprietor, G. PACKWOOD, 16, Gracechurch-ſtreet London, (turn over)
